I became friends with Dorothy when we worked together in DC at USDA. We lost touch in the mid-80s and I spent years trying to find her again. It was only when everyone was on the web that I was able to track her down at the University of South Carolina and we emailed and re-connected over the phone. I'm still living in the DC area.

We talked about meeting in Columbia at her house and driving to Charleston together. Well, time passed and we never set a date though I always thought we'd go one day. We hadn't spoken for over 10 years but I always knew she was out there.

I'm retiring Feb. 1, 2021 and I'm trying to re-connect with friends now that I'm finally going to have time. I was heartbroken when I found this page with her obituary. I always believed I'd see her again in this world. Now, I'll have to wait until the next.

I remember the time we went shopping over lunch and got stuck on the Metro for a couple of hours because there was a man on the tracks waving something (the police thought it was a gun but it turned out to be a tube of toothpaste!). It was my first 3-hour work lunch--we laughed so much. I remember that she liked to take the bus that took the longest to get her home from work because she like the ride. That she had three phones in her apartment because she didn't want to miss any calls. She was someone who had her own way of doing things and had a tremendous sense of humor!

My love to her family. I know how much you must miss her. I would love to hear from you.
