“ It is truly important to remember the times we've shared with loved ones and friends, be they good, bad, or indifferent. The memories are precious and even if we wish we could change something, it's alright, because everything that happens in life has been filtered through God's hands. Know that you all are loved and there are lots of blessings in store for you. Tim was a kind person and I know he will be missed. Much love to you and Eric and your families.
